Drilling under the direction of the Aderklaa Drilling Office yielded oil at two rigs on 22 January 1953, one in the vicinity of Mannersdorf, Lower Austria, and the other near Neusiedl am See, Burgenland. The two wells had to be throttled due to high gas pressure. As a result of the new wells, the SMV Purchasing Office ordered the firms "Canada", Tiefbohrgeraete und Maschinenfabrik and Teudloff-Vamag A.G. to deliver immediately two production crosses. Additional valves, pipe and "Flanschen" were ordered to be sent to the Klein-Neusiedl warehouse from where they will be delivered to the wells.
